See What Our Exhibitors Said

"One of our goals is to use automation to further the efficient use of energy and material resources as well as to improve product quality. Even a 1% increase in accuracy or lower use in energy and material resources can provide savings in the billions of rupiah per year. To this end we are continuously looking for new technology and partners to realize planned technology upgrades. Oil and Gas Indonesia is one of the best events to achieve just that."

Henry Chia, President Director at Endress+Hauser

"Since azaz cabotage we have seen a steady import of seafaring vessels into Indonesia, creating a trade deficit amounting to $13.10 Billion in 2018. IPERINDO hopes that the government will take drastic action to empower the Indonesia Maritime Industry by establishing favorable tax, fiscal, and financing regulations. When the Indonesian Maritime Industry grows, it can meet the nation's demand in seafaring vessels, and in the future it might even export vessels to other countries. When that day comes we will not see a deficit in the trade balance, but we will generate a trade surplus for Indonesia. This is where Marintec Indonesia plays a pivotal role to facilitate the industry towards this journey."
